

Housing Opportunities for Persons with AIDS

Community Collaborations to Provide Housing and Related Services for Persons who are living with HIV or AIDS and their families.
<http://www.hud.gov/offices/cpd/aidshousing>

The Housing Opportunities for Persons with AIDS (HOPWA) program provides housing assistance and related supportive services for low-income persons with HIV/AIDS and their families. Since 1992, HOPWA has helped thousands of Americans with HIV/AIDS avoid homelessness by addressing their housing needs in coordination with access to medical and other care.

*"I am a young mother and wife living with AIDS. I can speak from first hand experience...it is virtually impossible to receive medications, social security checks, or any practical support without stable housing."
--Juanita in Santa Fe, NM*

CONSOLIDATED PLANNING

The use of HUD and other resources are coordinated within recipient communities through the area's Consolidated Plan, involving HOPWA formula grants, other HUD Programs and other community resources, such as State, local and private funds through partnerships with area nonprofit organizations, including faith-based organizations.

Plans are developed through a public process that involves consultations in assessing area needs, creation of a multiple-year strategy and development of annual action plans for use of Federal funds in continuum with other community resources.

FORMULA PROGRAMS

Program funds are distributed under a formula that is based on AIDS surveillance information from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), for cumulative AIDS cases and area incidence. The formula allocates ninety percent of the appropriation to eligible States and cities on behalf of their metropolitan area.

In FY 2004, a total of $263.039 million was allocated by formula to 117 grantees, to the qualifying cities for 79 eligible metropolitan statistical areas (EMSAs) and to 38 eligible states for areas outside of EMSAs. Eligible formula areas have at least 1,500 cumulative cases of AIDS, as of March 31, a population of at least 500,000 and have a HUD-approved Consolidated Plan. One-quarter of the formula is awarded for metropolitan areas that have a higher than average per capita incidence of AIDS. HUD made use of new definitions of metropolitan areas; as issued by OMB in June 2003. A description of the new MSA, and allocation data for each HOPWA program can be found at:

www.hud.gov/offices/cpd/aidshousing/reporting/execsummary.

COMPETITIVE PROGRAMS

Ten percent of HOPWA funds are made available each year through a national competition. Annually, HUD publishes notice in the Federal Register on available funding. In May 2004, HUD announced the availability of HOPWA competitive funds through HUD's SuperNOFA process. Under that competition, HUD gave priority for the renewal of existing contracts that provide permanent supportive housing.

In December 2003, HUD selected 14 projects that provided the renewal of successful permanent housing projects. Additionally, 8 new projects, including 5 that plan to demonstrate outreach and program efforts to address the needs of persons with HIV/AIDS who are chronically homeless, and one new project in the underserved Colonias area. Also, 3 continuing projects were selected to operate transitional housing efforts. The Department also provided more than $3.5 million in rental assistance to persons with HIV/AIDS in connection with a collaboration with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to study the impact of stable housing on the health of persons served. The cities of Los Angeles, Chicago and Baltimore will participate in this three-year study.

Descriptions of the HOPWA competitive program and the competitive awards are available on the Internet at: www.hud.gov/offices/cpd/aidshousing/programs/competitive/index.cfm.

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

In addition to funding for projects, the FY 2004 appropriation makes $2.5 million available for training, oversight, and technical assistance activities. In prior years, HUD has used these funds to promote the sound management of HOPWA projects through grantee and sponsor training activities.

HOPWA technical assistance supports program goals by ensuring the sound management of HOPWA programs through assistance to underserved populations, including racial and ethnic minorities, women, youth, persons in rural areas, and post-incarcerated populations; helping communities develop comprehensive strategies for HIV/AIDS housing; providing information to connect clients with assistance; and using HUD information management tools to help achieve performance at the highest levels.

A description of the HOPWA Technical Assistance Program and its grantees can be accessed online: www.hud.gov/offices/cpd/aidshousing/programs/technical/index.cfm.

PROGRAM USES FOR HOUSING

HOPWA funds have provided housing assistance to thousands of low-income persons who are living with HIV/AIDS and their families. The program has helped many communities establish strategic AIDS housing plans, better coordinate local and private efforts, fill gaps in local systems of care, and create new housing resources. HOPWA funds may be used for rental assistance, short-term rent, mortgage, and utility payments; or for costs to develop and operate community residences.

Housing programs also provide supportive services and involve planning costs. Activities include, but are not limited to: the acquisition, rehabilitation or new construction of community residences and Single Room Occupancy (SRO) units; costs for the operation and maintenance of facilities and community residences; rental assistance; and short-term payments to prevent homelessness.

HOPWA may also be used to fund services offered in connection with housing assistance, such as assisting clients in accessing health care and mental health services; providing drug and alcohol abuse treatment and counseling; intensive care when required; nutritional services; case management; assistance with daily living; housing information and placement assistance; and other services, subject to standards and limitations. HOPWA clients also utilize a range of health and supportive services funded by HHS through the Ryan White Care Act and other mainstream programs.

Grantee and project sponsor administrative costs are limited by statute as up to 3 percent for grantee administration and up to 7 percent for project/sponsor administration.

BENEFICIARIES OF HOUSING

Formula and competitive grantees are reporting that 78,843 households have been supported through HOPWA funds in program year 2002-2003. These projects have leveraged other funding sources to support housing costs for over an additional 52,790 households in coordination with HOPWA efforts.

The range of housing supported with HOPWA funds includes the use of rental assistance payments for 27,458 households; support for maintaining current residences for 45,864 households through the use of small short-term rent, mortgage and utility payments; and the operating costs for supportive housing facilities, such as community residences, supporting 5,521 households with on-site activities and needed services. In addition, over 1,100 new units of housing were being renovated or constructed during this recent period.

Grantee's also report that about 91 percent of HOPWA's beneficiaries have family incomes of less than $1,000 per month and all families are low-income (less than 80 percent of area median income). In addition, on average every dollar of HOPWA funds for housing assistance is matched with approximately $2.05 of other funds to support housing activities and broaden the number of beneficiaries of these community programs.

NATIONAL EVALUATIONS

In developing the FY05 proposed budget, OMB conducted a management review to consider the effectiveness of this program. In summary the review concluded that:

- The HOPWA program demonstrates strong program purpose, design, and management, and annually measures the amount of housing assistance provided to the target population. However, the program must establish clear long-term outcome goals.
- HUD should work to develop long-term outcome goals; and update annual grantee reporting requirements to include reporting on outcome measures.

A National Evaluation of the Housing Opportunities for Persons with AIDS Program (HOPWA), was undertaken by HUD's Office of Policy Development and Research. The findings, issued in January 2001, noted:

- The HOPWA program predominantly serves the "poorest of the poor," persons with extremely low-incomes and very low-incomes who are living with HIV/AIDS, including many people with additional burdens such as mental illness and substance abuse;
- The report documents that 54 percent are persons with extremely low-income (less than 30 percent area median) and another 27 percent are very low-income (30-50 percent area median);
- The HOPWA program's flexibility helps meet clients' housing needs and preferences "primarily in the form of tenant-based rental assistance and short-term payments for rent;
- The HOPWA program appears to enhance clients' housing stability which increase the "ability of clients to focus on maintaining good health and adhering to medical regimens;"
- Grantees and housing providers (92%) report coordination with Ryan White CARE Act and HUD's Continuum of Care systems in setting priorities and in planning.

SOURCE: IDIS, APR, and CAPER Data

- On average, each dollar used for HOPWA housing assistance is being combined with $2.19 for housing assistance from other government and private sources for housing development and housing operating expenses;
- Clients report a high level of satisfaction with the housing they are receiving in terms of housing stability, adequacy of housing, and quality of life;
- Collaboration is a key component to successful project implementation to promote a more efficient use of resources, prevent duplication of services and collaboration, and assist clients to focus on health goals; and
- Special Projects of National Significance are providing effective models for replication in program designs and implementation, and the use of care studies will benefit efforts in other communities.

FAIR HOUSING

HUD's Directive on HIV/AIDS notes that it is illegal to discriminate against a person because of a real or perceived disability. The Fair Housing Act bars housing discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, disability, family status, and national origin. It covers the sale, rental, financing, and advertising of almost all the nation's housing. The Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity stands ready to investigate cases where individuals with AIDS or HIV infection have been subjected to discrimination in housing. The FHEO Office of Investigations may be contacted at 1-800-669-9777 or at Headquarters at (202) 708-0836.
